Of one half of these the probation of the manner in which they are conducted, and to express their unanimous conviction that in no other mode can our Order be so universally and successfully commended to the good wishes and individual sanction of our fellow cit zens as by their agency. It seems to your Committee very evident that notwithstanding the popular and economic form in which these journals are presented for patronage, they must rely for their healthful and steady support upon the good-will of Odd Fellows, masmuch as their principal contents will necessarily be pertinent only to the objects of the Order, and hence specially adapted to tical and daily enforcement of that benign trio of published monthly at Richmond, Va.; and that he Many have taken pieces of land equal to thirty-three Carroll Mrs Martha principles, sanctioned by inspiration, and appropriately blazoned to the world in the motto of our Order __ said papers respectively, and also the four first vol-"FRIENDSHIP, Love and TRUIH."
